Romulus Department of Public Work crew members found themselves knee-deep in water (as did the driver of this car) when a 16-inch water main broke early Tuesday morning.

The break, which occurred in the Five Points area where Huron River Drive and Grant and Ozga roads meet, caused homes and businesses in the immediate area to experience a water shut-off for what officials expected to be four or more hours that day.

A spokeswoman from the water department said calls logged in from irate citizens indicated that, in some homes, water levels rose in basements almost to the "tops of washing machines."

Hester family files suit against city

By CHRISTINE RIZK
ANP Staff Writer

The family of James Hester, the man killed June 27 in a police shooting incident, filed a lawsuit Friday, Aug. 9, in Wayne County Circuit Court.

The suit alleges that Jim W. Khoury, 26, a Romulus police officer, acted without justification and with excessive force when responding to a fight in progress at the Birch Run Apartments on the evening of June 25 and subsequently shooting and killing Hester.

Also named in the suit are Police Chief Donald Flood and the City of Romulus.

Hester, 25, was shot in the temple at close range in a move that angered residents of the apartment complex and caused many at the time to suggest the incident was racially motivated. Khoury is white and Hester was black.

Police discounted the allegations at time saying that the department would wait until the Wayne County Prosecutor's Office released its findings.

Hester was engaged in a fight with another man on the front lawn of an apartment when Khoury approached the scene and held a gun to Hester's head, witnesses stated.

What followed is uncertain. Police said Khoury may have been acting in self-defense after Hester raised his hand welding a knife.

Why Khoury shot the gun and his cause for action has yet to be determined by the prosecutor's office.

Those findings are expected to be released sometime this week, after an almost two-month investigation.

It will be decided at that time whether a criminal warrant will be issued in the case.

Willie Hester, brother of the victim, said Monday that his reasons for acting almost two months after the incident were multi-fold.

"... I kind of feel now that the whole situation was out of order."

"Initially," Hester said, "at the offset of the situation, that kind of thing (lawsuit) was not on anyone's mind. At the time, we had vague information about the whole thing. I have since talked with quite a few witnesses to find out what exactly happened...I kind of feel now that the whole situation was out of order."

Hester had previously disclosed that his family would decline to comment on the incident until after the prosecutor's office released its findings.

Hester said he became increasingly more upset when information released to the press seemed favorable to Khoury.

"They were saying they (the police department) were going to wait until the prosecutor's report was released but then released only information that he (Khoury) may have acted justifiably," Hester commented.

It was the "consensus" of the 10-member family that caused Hester to obtain the help of attorney Kenneth Cockrel, who subsequently filed suit on their behalf.

"It's a perfectly appropriate response," Cockrel said in response to the time lapse between the incident and the suit.

Flood, contacted Monday, said there was "no one more surprised than me" when hearing of the lawsuit in the newspapers.

"If it's a justifiable shooting, then I have to make some decisions," he said. "If it's not justifiable, then the prosecutor's office will follow through with a warrant."

The suit also alleges that Hester, through the excessive use of force, was denied certain constitutional rights and due process.

Also cited was cruel and unusual punishment, Cockrel said.

"We are saying that certain regulations that would have been followed--the use of firearms, the training of officers for the city--were not," he said.

Cockrel, responding to the allegations that the incident was racially motivated, said the suit does not address that issue.

"The claim that we make does not rest upon the color of skin of the victim or the officer," he said. "If we go to trial...then quite obviously, (the jury) is going to be able to discern the race of (Hester) and the officer."

Khoury is currently suspended from the force with pay pending the investigation.

Lear Siegler offers jobs

By CHRISTINE RIZK
ANP Staff Writer

In a move that has city council members and the mayor singing praises, Lear Siegler, Inc. will begin accepting applications for 230 assembly workers for their general seating division plant today (Wednesday) from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m. at the Progressive Club, 11580 Ozga Road, Romulus.

The company, headquartered in Santa Monica, California, is involved in aerospace, heating and cooling and construction of automotive and truck seating.

A new plant, already construction on the north side of Eureka Road between I-275 and the C & O railroad, will assemble automobile seats for the Willow Run 1986 H-Car.

— Mary Ann Banks

Its move into the city has pleased officials who are anxious to see the company thrive after promising 230 openings to qualified Romulus residents.

Qualifications of the applicants will be determined by individual expertise, Tom Henstock, the plant manager said.

Training will be provided on quality insurance which includes statistical process control and in other areas.

The company recently received a 9-year tax abatement, increased from the mayor's original proposal of six years. Lear Siegler plans to complete an 86,500-square foot manufacturing and office facility, expected to create the 230 jobs.

Already under construction since mid-July, the targeted completion date, just in time for beginning production of the H-Car seats, is Dec. 1, according to Henstock.

The city council offered no objections when granting the tax abatements.

"Considering the requests of other companies that have opened up with fewer jobs...it's a very reliable corporation and we're talking about over 200 jobs," Mary Ann Banks, Mayor Pro Tem, said.

It is the first time since General Motors arrived in the city that a company granted a tax abatement has created so many new jobs for residents, according to officials.

The company promises to hire, as required under the abatement program, as many Romulus residents as qualified.

"It's a blessing," said Rich Viskochil, community development director. "They are a prestigious company, well-known throughout the entire U.S. other companies will see them here and want to locate in this area."

Said Mayor Beverly McAnally, "I feel they've gone beyond anything I've seen. They have not said they will bring anyone from any other town (for employment)..."

State police await lab tests on drugs garnered in raid

By CHRISTINE RIZK
ANP Staff Writer

Michigan State Police and federal drug enforcement officers are awaiting the results of the chemical analysis of 650 poppie and 540 marijuana plants seized in a raid in New Boston last week. The raid, based upon a tip, was initiated by Operation HEMP (Help Eradicate Marijuana Plants) officials and U.S. Drug Enforcement agents.

Conducted in the backyard of a home on Evans Street in New Boston Aug 5, the raid was part of a state-wide effort to eradicate marijuana patches across Michigan, a state trooper said.

Also confiscated in the seige was suspected opium poppy plants typically used for making opium and other drugs.

The suspected drugs were sent for a lab analysis last week and as yet, there has been no confirmation of whether the plants are actually marijuana or poppy.

Lt. Miller, of the Michigan State Police post in Flatrock, said a field test was made on the suspected marijuana plants and troopers had "sufficient evidence" to seek a warrant, but investigators decided to await lab analysis of the poppy plants.

Miller said a field test of the plants could not be validated until lab results were concluded.

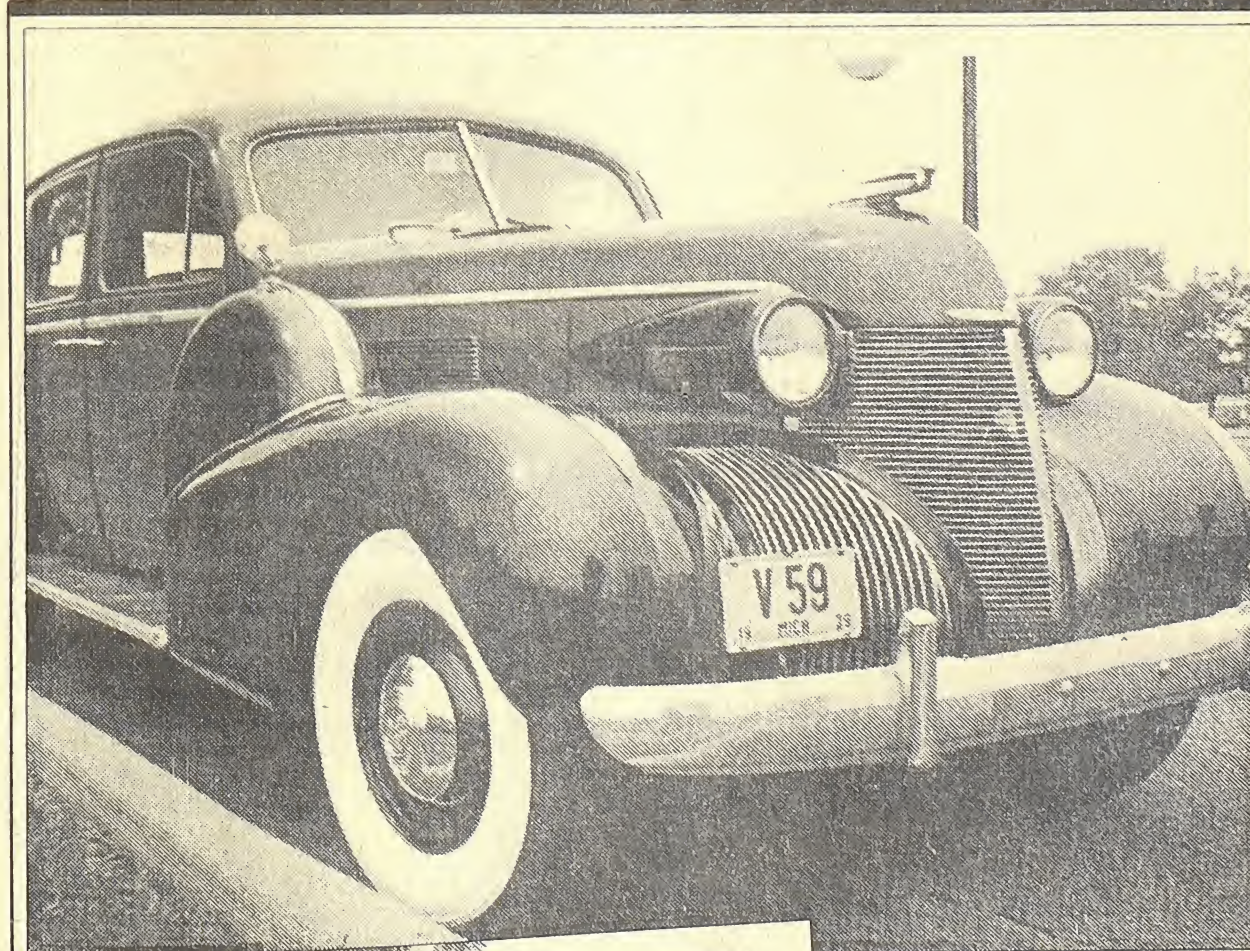

"It's been a long time since opium tests have been made," he said Monday. "It's the first confiscation of suspected opium has been made that any of us have ever seen."

Miller said according to a DEA investigator who identified the poppy plants, of the 110 or more varieties, not all are opium-producing.

Two subjects, in their mid-20s, were at the residence raided, the state trooper said.

Investigators said no arrests have been made pending the lab results and the conclusion of the investigation.

The investigation is currently under the direction of the Michigan State Police in Flatrock.

Local car buffs shine

Nine local car buffs showed up at the Romulus Antique Car sesquicentennial celebration Saturday, August 10 on the city hall grounds. Antique, as well as custom, cars were on display, as shown here with Jackie Corbin, seated on her 1949 Mercury and Norman Binder's 1939 Fleetwood limosine.

The event, one of many sponsored by the sesquicentennial committee, offered emissions testing by the energy committee as well as an equestrian display by the horsemen's association and pony rides.

Let your fingers do the walking . . .

By SUE McDONALD
ANP Editor

As the saying goes . . . "Let your fingers do the walking through the Yellow Pages" . . . but women in the tri-county area are finding a new alternative to the thick, sometimes cumbersome, business directory so closely associated with the telephone book.

The Women's Yellow Pages is making its debut in Wayne, Oakland and Macomb counties this month, the offshoot of similar publication that has taken the Greater Ann Arbor area by storm, since its first issue two years ago.

The brainchild of Maggie Hostetler, Lorri Sipes and Beth Vermett, the Women's Yellow Pages has a threefold purpose—to provide an advertising medium for women, to help women network with one another and to inform the community about women's achievements and contributions in the work place.

"It's feminist oriented because of the idea that women need to support each other in business," Hostetler explained. "Business women are less concerned about a feminist stigma; they're more concerned about making their business a success. Finding women customers is one way of doing that."

The idea of a women-oriented business directory stemmed from the lack of a formal network for businesswomen in Ann Arbor.

According to Hostetler, women would meet informally and in the process of exchanging ideas and information would swap business cards.

The threesome published their first edition of the Ann Arbor Women's Yellow Pages in 1983. They started working on it in February of that year contacting as many business-women in Washtenaw County as they could by the September publication date.

The response to the 1983 edition was "very good," according to Hostetler, and since then it has become "an institution" in Ann Arbor, with most women knowing about it.

Putting together the greater Detroit area version was a bit different. The trio had some 8,000 businesswomen in more than 100 communities to contact. They used the telephone book, the Michigan State Bar Journal, contacted the state for a listing of registered social workers and perused Chamber of Commerce directories to track down prospective advertisers.

"We had a hard time figuring out how to reach people," Hostetler said, "especially since a lot of people had never heard of us. Some were reluctant to advertise with us or wanted to wait to see how it turned out."

About 5,000 were contacted by mail, while the remaining 3,000 were called by two to three salespeople they employed.

"It was a lot of work just finding the names, addresses and telephone numbers of potential customers," Hostetler explained. "We did it without the aid of computer, which made it even more tedious."

The Women's Yellow Pages includes 93 categories of listings, ranging from motivational speakers to roommate services to private detectives and engineers, from 300 businesswomen in the tri-county area. Not a lot in comparison to the number the group contacted to begin with, but enough to pay for the publication with some left over, according to Hostetler.

Rates for the Women's Yel- low Pages are lower than the more comprehensive version published by Ameritech, but, according to Hostetler, that's because the mini-version is geared to a specific market. . . women. A basic 4-line listing costs $45 for one year, while the business card display ad—the most popular—sells for $110 for one year and includes a directory listing.

The trio hasn't had problems using the Yellow Pages name in its publication, and according to Hostetler, Ameritech contacted them to advertise in its Yellow Pages.

The group is setting up seven main headquarters in the tri-county area to distribute the Women's Yellow Pages and hopes to have copies placed in libraries and at Chambers of Commerce. Free copies are available locally at the Paper Tiger Book Store, located at 33460 Seven Mile Road, Livonia.

However, copies can be obtained by sending $2 to cover postage and handling to the Women's Yellow Pages, Box 2463, Ann Arbor, Michigan 48106.

Women's groups, which would like copies of the book to distribute to their memberships, or women-owned business that have "a lot of women customers," can also contact the publication at the aforementioned address, including their name, address and telephone number. It will mail out up to 200 copies of the book to such groups.

The trio is not sitting back on its laurels of two successful publications, nor is it looking to adding new books. Rather Hostetler said, they will be concentrating on expanding the Detroit issue.

"Once we get that going strong, then we'll look at expanding into other areas," she said.

BOOK REVIEW... The Romulus Historical Society is planning a special event for its Aug. 21 meeting. The meeting will be held at the Romulus Public Library at 7 p.m., and the program for the evening will feature the Rev. Alvin Burton and Mamie Garvin. The book, "Negro United Methodists in Michigan," was co-authored by the pair.

A retired minister of the Detroit Conference and longtime Romulus resident, Rev. Burton is a charter member of the Historical Society. As pastor of the Second Grace Methodist in Church in Detroit, he continues to serve Second Grace as pastor emeritus. He is a graduate of Boston University's School of Theology.

Garvin is a retired court reporter, currently employed as a hearings officer for the Detroit Edison Company. She has served the church on the local, district and conference levels. As secretary for the Conference Organization of United Methodist Women, she writes for the "Detroit Conference News."

The evening will begin with a discussion of the book, followed by the sale of autographed copies of "Negro Methodists in Michigan." Refreshments will be served.

The society, which has more than 50 active members, meets the third Wednesday of every month. The public is invited to attend.

WHAT'S HAPPENING IN OUR COMMUNITY?...What activities are planned in your school area? What organizations exist in Romulus? What do they do and how does a person become involved with them?

These are some of the questions I would like to answer in this school and community activities column. Contact me at 942-0919, or write to Kristine Detroyer, 12105 Elmview, Romulus 48174. I'll be looking for your letter.

Thank you for your response in the past; I'm anxious to write about your group.

THE LOYAL LOCALS...Car buffs of Romulus have shown their interest in being a part of the Romulus Sesquicentennial celebration. Nine automotive wonders were on display at the antique and custom car show last Saturday. They were (in the order of arrival) Ray Corbin's '49 Mercury, Mike Guindon's '70 Mustang, Wesley Jager's '77 Ford van, Al Galli's '56 Packard and '54 Jaguar, Robert Smith's 1930 Ford Model A town sedan, the Morgans' '65 Plymouth Valiant and '55 Cushman and the most impressive, Norman Binder's 1939 Fleetwood Cadillac limousine.

All who attended enjoyed the show put on by the horsemen's association, the pony rides given by Barbara Wiskowski, the free emissions testing from Bear Automotive and the Energy Committee and the antics of the very wet St. Aloysius car-washing cheerleaders.

SENIOR CITIZENS CLUB x1...is sponsoring a trip on Aug. 14 to Carey, Ohio, to visit the Shrine of Our Lady of Consultation. If you would like to join the gang, contact Marilyn at 941-0666, ext. 257, before Aug. 9. The trip includes transportation and snacks on the bus for the small amount of $10 per person. Lunch is on your own at the shrine. Depending on your appetite you'll probably spend between $3 and $6 on lunch. There is no admission charge at the shrine, but please keep in mind that donations are accepted and appreciated. The group will leave the senior center in Romulus at 8 a.m. and will return in the late afternoon. You don't have to be a Club x1 member to participate.

flower contest of the Senior Tower's residents? Each year a person with a very green thumb is recognized for his or her efforts to keep a beautiful balcony. The honorable Mayor Beverly McAnally and members of the Beautification Committee will be through there at 10 a.m. on Aug. 15 to decide which balcony looks the best.

I know it's going to be a tough decision because there are many beautiful flowers around the Romulus Senior Towers.

School board considers new tests

By CHRISTINE RIZK
ANP Staff Writer

Students may find a change in their state-required tests when returning to school in the Fall.

The Romulus school board is considering a plan to update the currently-use California Achievement Test (CAT) to include revisions in the test forms now available to kindergarten through grade 11 students.

The new tests will reflect instructional improvements made in school districts over the last ten years, according to Terrel LeCesne, the assistant superintendent for Romulus Community Schools.

The initial cost of purchasing the new edition of the testing program is $24,880 and includes both the test and the publisher scoring service.

That figure would drop to approximately $16,600 the following year because the test material is reusable, LeCesne said.

The school board recently referred the matter to the finance committee based upon a recommendation to the board by a test committee headed by LeCesne that the district purchase the new tests.

The finance committee will conduct meetings with the district business manager to determine whether the school budget can absorb the cost of the tests, LeCesne said.

The CAT tests are administered once a year in Spring to evaluate student achievement in reading, language, the arts, math, social studies, map skills and other academic areas.

The tests currently in use in K-11 grades are those purchased in 1977 and reflect that year's "norms", LeCesne said.

Norms are those statistics established by the publisher of the tests that are based upon an analysis of student scores. This compilation of student performance then becomes the average achievement level of students across the nation to be used in judging what should be standard performances by students in a particular grade level.

Currently, LeCesne said, Romulus schools are comparing achievement levels with student achievement in 1977, a comparison not viable when considering technological advancement that has occurred since that time.

"Testing tells us (student) achievement levels," he said. "With the higher technology, we should be comparing them to today's norms."

With the purchase of the new test questions and the inclusion of the scoring service, the district should be better able to determine the achievement level of today's students.

Purchase of the tests would mean also that the district would be one step ahead of other districts that may chose to remain with the older edition.

Scoring of the tests, usually done by the county, would revert to the publisher, LeCesne said, which is better able to interpret the test results for the district.

The county will not change to the new test until next year, he said. At that time, the school district could return to the county scoring method.

Score analysis, through the publisher, would yield more information about student performance and would specify those areas of concern for a student, a grade level, the school in general and even the district, a feature not provided in county scoring.

This would allow teachers to program a more individualized method of instruction based upon student needs as set forth by the service.

"Take math for instance," LeCesne said. "The test results will tell us not only if a student can add, but if that student can add two, three or four digits or carry figures over."

A second benefit to using the publisher's scoring service is aptitude scoring. Not only will a teacher receive test results for her students who will be transferring to a higher grade but also for her incoming student's performance, based upon an analysis of the lower grade level test scores.

The scoring would diagnos strengths and weaknesses of those students.

Aptitude testing is distinct from achievement testing in that achievement scores reflect what a student has learned. Aptitude testing indicates what a student is capable of learning.

The district currently spends $4,700 for county scoring services. LeCesne said his district testing committee believes that the additional information offered by the publisher scoring service "far outweighs the cost" and will help teachers do a better job in preparing instructional methods.

It will also give parents more information on their child's grade performance, he said.

Diplomacy on ice

More than 3,000 athletes converged on the City of Wayne this week to participate in an ice-skating competition. Participants traveled from as far away as Taiwan, Belgium and Australia to be involved in the various displays of skill and athletic prowess.

The number of visitors is expected to top 6,000 when families and friends of the skaters are included in the total number of those arriving in this area for the event. It is expected that many of these families will make this a vacation excursion...they'll shop, sight-see, dine, and certainly return home with an impression made here. Some will realize this is one particular section of their own state, others will keep the experiences here filed away as their picture of Michigan...and some may remember this area as their only frame of reference for a picture of our entire country.

We feel that that impression will be good – it will be something that we can all be proud of. We are very proud of this community...and by that we include all the areas we serve. We do not have any qualms about the impressions that may be left with our visitors by the citizens and merchants here.

The opportunity to stand back and objectively look at our own communities through the eyes of a visitor is rare. But when that criteria is applied to Wayne, Westland, Canton, Belleville, Inkster, Romulus and the other communities we serve the picture is one of caring, growing municipalities with helpful, friendly, polite citizens who welcome visitors with a smile and a kind word.

There is nothing more valuable, nor memorable.

Big business, indeed

A second application by Environmental Management Systems for the construction of a hazardous waste landfill at I-275 and Will Carleton Road in Huron Township was denied last week by the Department of Natural Resources.

The denial was due, primarily, to the copyright placed on the application by Environmental Management. A spokesman for the company explained the copyright in part by admitting that the company has "spent over $500,000 in preparing the application." The copyright, according to the Department of Natural Resources, prevented that agency from copying and disseminating the information contained in the application for processing, therefore the denial was issued.

Toxic waste must be big business, indeed, if a company is willing to invest more than half a million dollars in preparing a preliminary application for a permit. Many of us, it would appear, do not fully realized just exactly how valuable a toxic waste permit is, or how much an applicant might be willing to spend to obtain one.

This is big business – and big money is being spent. While most local officials and citizens have become involved in the emotional rhetoric surrounding the issue and safety concerns are discussed and analyzed repeatedly, the financial concerns rarely are brought to public view.

The opponents to the landfill are fighting for their safety and their lives...or so they believe. But how many of those involved realize the strength and power of the organization seeking this permit? This would appear to be a "David and Goliath" situation, with money being the arsenal in Goliath's war chest.

Money talks...we just hope that it doesn't speak in a manner which might endanger the homes and welfare of area citizens.

'Star' search

A total of 38 candidates have filed applications for the position of city manager in Belleville. The $25,000 per year city job became available in April when the first man to ever have the job title resigned.

The resignation was clear-cut and submitted after only two years on the job. There are still questions in some minds concerning the exact and real reasons for that resignation...but the vacancy, presently being filled by interim city manager Justin Emerson, exists, and is of crucial importance to the City of Belleville.

The position of city manager is one of enormous responsibility. It is a job which demands accountability to a large number of people, the majority of whom feel they are the sole guardian of the public welfare.

The candidate selected must not only be efficient, experienced, knowledgeable, educated and eminently qualified...he must also act as a diplomat, politician, peacemaker, and occasionally, babysitter.

The City of Belleville is asking for a great deal from the 38 hopefuls who wish to occupy the city manager's office. But the City of Belleville deserves no less.

We know they will make this selection seriously, without political intrigue and choose a candidate in which they have faith.

Then, they must allow the city manager to prove they were wise and prudent in the selection process by expressing their faith and confidence in the successful candidate. The new city manager will need that support and confidence to provide Belleville with the expertise it deserves.

Summertime memories

We are now amidst that wondrous time that it seems we look forward to all year long . . . summer.

Most families probably schedule their vacations during these summer months of July and August. This seems to be the season to plan trips, visit with the relatives, spend time at home or at a lake, either camping or at a summer cottage.

Some of my fondest boyhood memories are of summertime spent at the family cottage on Sand Lake in the Irish Hills. I had a grandfather who was the speedboat demon of the lake, and for years he reveled in the knowledge that he could leave anybody behind in his spray through the waves. When something faster appeared he'd go back to the drawing board and start working on his boat, soon to emerge from the garage piloting a boat even meaner and faster than before.

My dad preferred an inboard with both power and comfort. I remember what we called the "launch" with which we'd pull four skiers at the same time. My mother would stand on the shore and wring her hands worrying that everyone might not come back in one piece.

Our cottage, like most, was a magnet for people to "visit". They would "stop by" and just happen to have their bathing suits in the car. They would then manage to stay for dinner, and sometimes even spend the night. There was lots of togetherness in those days. We only had three bedrooms, but that proved adequate, even with our frequent guests, the way my family arranged it. As the runt of the litter, I slept on everything there was to sleep on or in, including a bed, couch, the floor, a tent, a tree house and a porch lounge, to name a few.

Who washed or dried the dishes, who set the table, shucked the corn, cut the beans, or cooked the hot dogs and hamburgers on the grill was always good for a family argument. "I did it last time," was guaranteed to be heard daily.

In the very early days, we had an ice box – stocked with a block of ice for a fridge and oil lamps to be used when the lights went out in the summer home built by my great-great-grandfather. Before my time the cottage included an outdoor "facility" and a small barn for the horses.

In the later years, after many improvements and modernizations, the cottage had become a year-round home for my retired grandfather, "Pops." As his family became too busy and preoccupied with their own lives to visit, he lived a lonely but otherwise ideal retirement life by extending summertime into year-round living.

On a warm summer evening there were friends visiting to play canasta, bolivia or dominoes. Days were spent primarily in and around the water, sunning, power-boating, fishing, scuba diving, rowing or working on the boats. The work never ended, however. Something always needed cutting, painting, washing, trimming, raking or carrying.

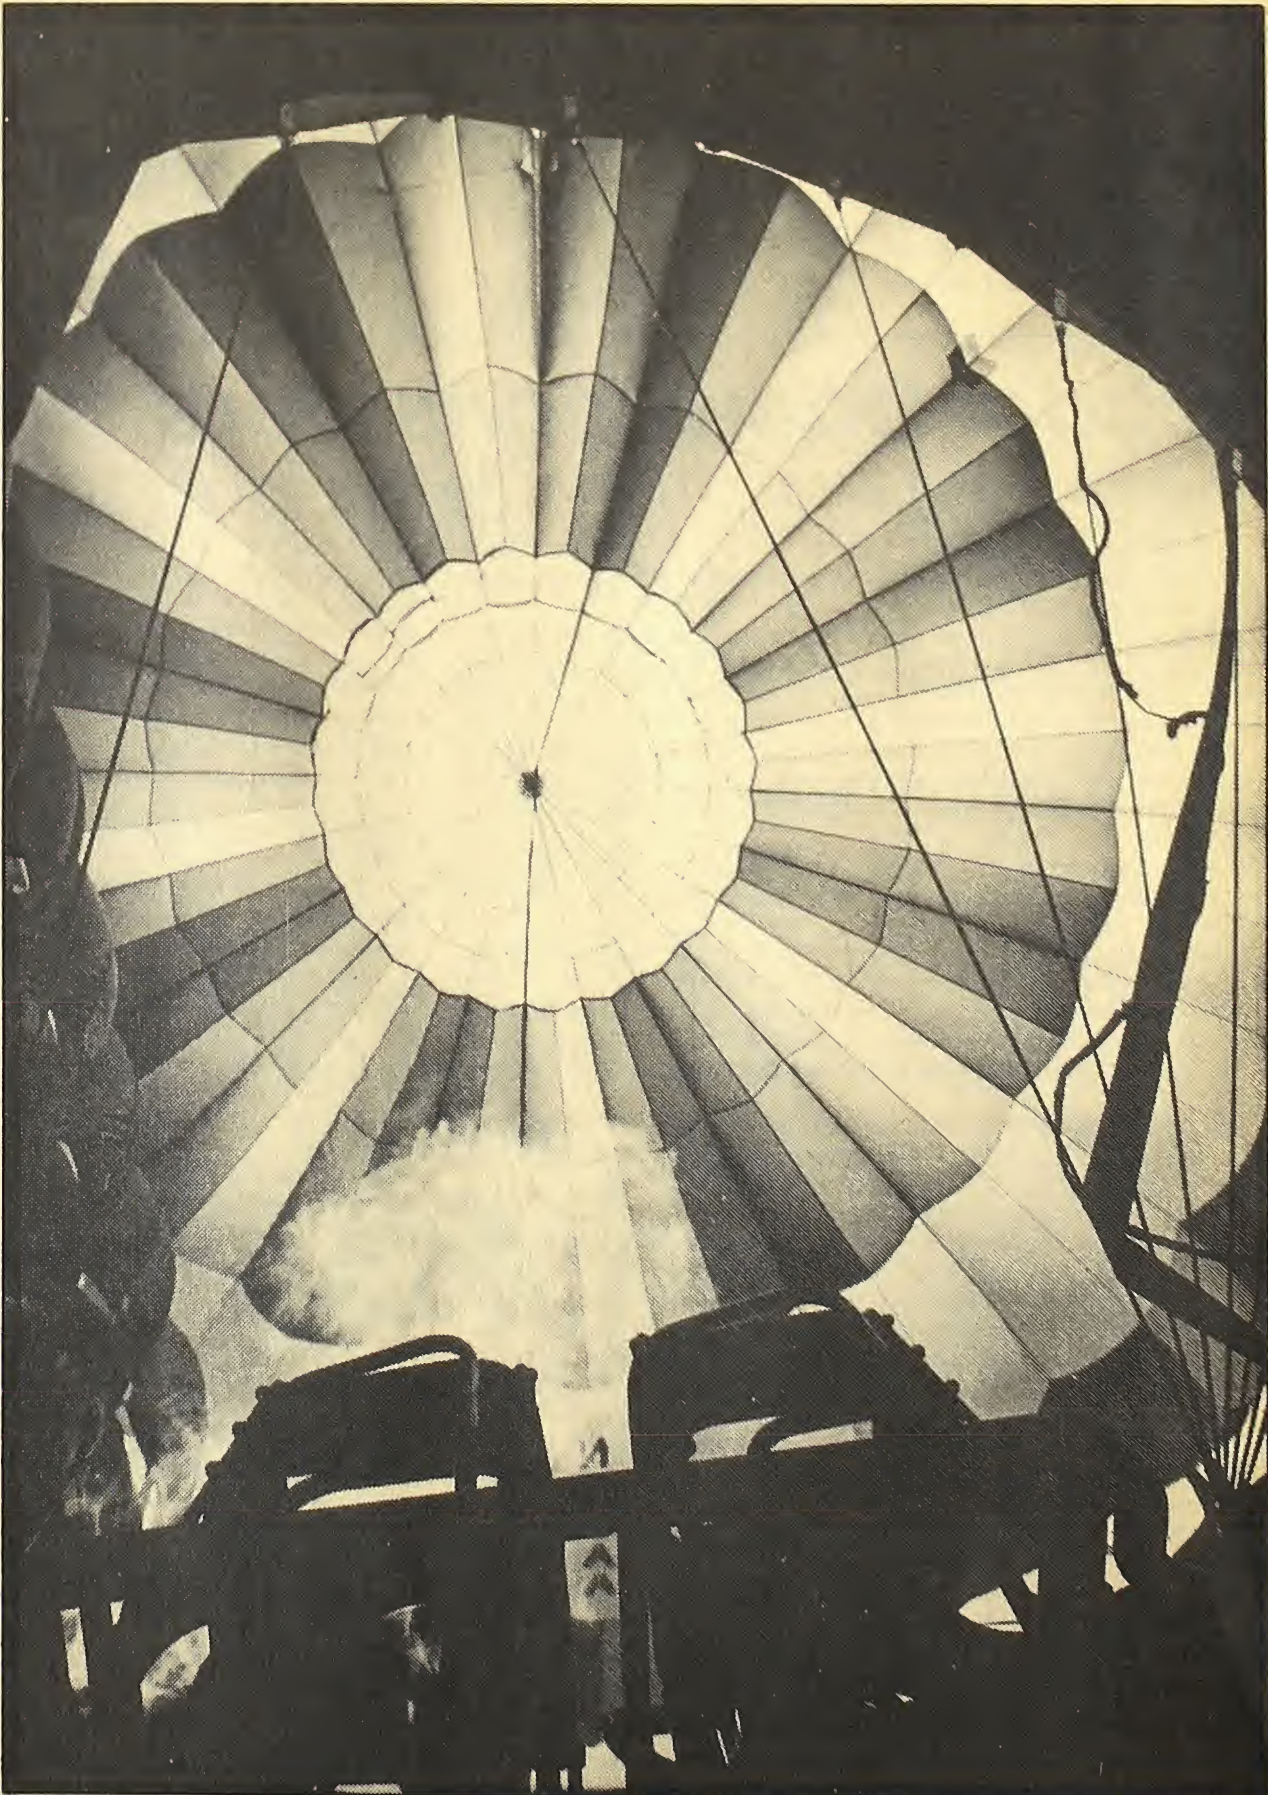

Probably the most satisfying past-time was porch-sitting. Many an hour was spent on the front porch watching boats on the lake and cars passing where we sat and rocked in one of the chairs or propelled ourselves gently on the porch swing.

Listening to the ball game, reading, napping or chatting about recent events made the summer hours pass quickly by. I miss those carefree days and envy those with the good fortune and sense to include such leisure time into their lives on a regular basis.

In the last few weeks I had a chance to slow down a bit from the normal pace and rediscover the days of summer leisure. The boyhood years of several summertime weeks at the cottage for me are but a memory. The pressures of business have for some time now not allowed such a luxury. But in whatever way we are able, each of us needs to learn to stop and smell the flowers along the way. Life really is too short not to do so.

See you next week.

Tournament Praised

To the Editor

Congratulations are in order for Larry Quartuccio, the J and D Auto/Atchinson Ford Softball Club, and all those responsible for making the ninth annual Leonard J. Anderson Invitational Softball Tournament an overwhelming success, again.

Keyed by great weather all three days, the tournament rolled along with some excellent softball played by the 16 teams entered, leading up to the final game between the two biggest and strongest teams competing, defending champions J and D Auto of Wayne and Perkins Engines of Wixom. In the thrilling final game, J and D Auto rallied from a 10 run deficit to become the first repeat champions in the tournament history. The final score was 27-22.

Another highlight, added this year, was the Saturday night entertainment, music provided by D. J. - Jack "Bigfoot" Fowler. Also, Tim Kelly did his "Samurai Warrior" skit to the enjoyment of all. Everybody there partied and danced into late Saturday night. The only thing missing from last year was the obnoxious beer throwing drunk. But I'm sure he wasn't missed.

Everything about the tournament was handled professionally. My only suggestions for improvement would be for a better P.A. system (the announcers were hard to hear), and a few more porta-johns. Everything else was great.

Lennie Anderson's family was there and enjoyed the action. And Lennie, who loved softball, would be proud to know his name is connected to the premier event of the Wayne softball season.

You be the judge

Which chocolate chip cookie is really the best? Who makes the finest pizza in this area? Which one of the local taverns really offers the tastiest ground round? And where do you go to get the creamiest ice cream around?

Perhaps not earth-shaking dilemmas, but matters of concern to many of us, nonetheless. Therefore, in an effort to provide answers to these burning questions of the day, Associated Newspapers this week begins an irregular, unofficial and totally unqualified opinion poll of local "experts" in the field who will offer their comments on these weighty matters.

Our judges for each category will differ . . . for our survey this week we chose seven of our newspaper carriers. Who better to judge the quality and taste of chocolate chip cookies? Our illustrious panel needed no credentials or qualifications other than a great fondness for chocolate chip cookies and a willingness to subject themselves to taste-testing eight different varieties, no small task, but our panel proved themselves more than up to the challenge.

The judges this week included expert Darius Jones, 12, of Belleville, Chris Green, 12, from Canton Township, Byron Rocheleau, 14, of Wayne, Jennifer Warnick, 11, of Canton Township, Jennifer Daniel, 12, from Romulus, Ron Case, 13, from Westland and last but certainly not least, John Pienton, 13, also from Westland.

The judges chose their favorite cookie strictly on the basis of personal preference and taste. We weren't interested in nutritional value, appearance, packaging, or price. This was a taste test, pure and simple. We hope the results will help mothers everywhere when it comes time to make that all-important grocery-store purchase for lunch boxes this fall.

Our next panel of pseudo-experts will be offering their opinions regarding the qualities of professionally prepared pizza from area outlets. If you have a favorite you'd like to nominate for our judges to consider, or if you would like to donate your culinary creation, phone Susan Bachand-Willett or Sue McDonald at 729-4000 for the time and date of the next tasting session.

Until then, happy eating.

KEEBLER CHIPS DELUXE

This cookie didn't fare well at all with our judges who all found it to be hard and dry. They characterized it as "tasteless" with the exception of Byron, who admitted that the crunchy cookies are his favorites. He liked this cookie and gave it high marks although the other judges were all highly critical of both the texture and taste.

KEEBLER RICH & CHIPS

This cookie rated only an "okay" from the judges who found it better than others, although far from their favorite. They found it hard, but did locate more chips in it. On a scale of one to 10, they allotted it a 3.

KEEBLER SOFT BATCH

Several of the audience members found this cookie recognizable on sight, although names of the brands tested was not revealed to the judges or audience until all the results were tallied. The panel, with the exception of Byron and Jennifer Daniel who both prefer crunchier cookies, found this to be acceptable to their palates, although Darius found them salty and Byron thought there was a distinctive aftertaste. Three of the judges gave this their highest rating. Ron and John particularly liked the texture of this cookie.

NABISCO CHIPS AHOY

This cookie met with the approval of Byron who found them "crisp" while Darius and Chris found them "hard." Both our Jennifers thought the chocolate chips were "too sweet" and Ron and John agreed that the cookie, overall, was too sweet for their tastes.

NABISCO CHIPS & MORE

Jennifer Warrick found this her favorite, as did Byron. Chris agreed that while this is a hard cookie, it was the best of those with that texture. John thought they were okay, "but I wouldn't want my mom to buy 'em." Darius, too, thought that while they were hard, they were good, Ron thought they were too hard, "I bit into it and it was hard to get my teeth through." Overall, this appeared to get the highest marks.

DUNCAN HINES CHOCOLATE CHIP

This is the one that threw our judges into a real disagreement. Darius thought this was the best of all, as did Chris. Ron agreed that he would recommend these to anybody to buy and John absolutely agreed that these were the best he'd tasted. Both Jennifers, however, found the cookies "too mushy and sweet" and thought they left an aftertaste. Byron, too, felt there was too much sugar and that the texture was much too soft.

GRANDMA'S RICH & CHEWY

Poor grandma. She didn't fare well at all in this test. One of our judges went so far as to suggest that she needs to retire...in short her cookies were "too sweet, left an aftertaste, had no flavor and tasted like Play-doh." Our condolences to grandma, but she had no fans on this panel.

ENTENMANN'S CHOCOLATE CHIP

Only Byron found anything to like about Entenmann's. He felt these were the best of the soft cookies-although soft cookies aren't his favorites. It was the consensus of opinion here that these were "fake cookies" that had no taste and Chris suggested that the flavor may have been lost somewhere in the mixing procedure. Darius thought there were a lot of chips, but no flavor and the remainder of the judges explained that they "just didn't like 'em."

"Missions, mountains, movie making, the West has it all." So says Pat Burbeck, Chamber of Commerce board member and manager of Bud's T.V., after spending two and one-half weeks in Arizona.

Pat and co-worker Dorothy Miles drove out to visit Bud and Jeanette Brown, the owners of Bud's T.V., who now live in Green Valley, Arizona. Among the places visited were Madera Canyon, historic old Tucson and old Tombstone, famous landmarks of the old West, where many movie westerns were filmed.

They crossed the border into Mexico and toured the native markets and also shopped the modern stores in Phoenix and Tucson.

Even though the temperature hit 104 degrees it never slowed them down.

The drive out took them through Kansas and Colorado, "and really made us realize what a wonderful country this is," Burbeck said. "I think what impressed me the most was how much of historic value there was to learn—the old missions that date back to the Spaniards and the people who braved the unknown to settle the West."

We have a great historical heritage in this country. It is important that each area should preserve its own, and I hope we can work to that end right here in Belleville.

The historic theme was emphasized in a personal way by the family of R. Lynne Hamilton, Van Buren Township supervisor, during July.

The Hamiltons were part of the 113th Reunion of the Rigg family held at Victory Park.

Most of those in attendance were from the local area, but visitors came from Port Huron and the oldest member was Hamilton's mother Rachel, who is 88; the youngest, a little miss of just 2 months.

On July 25 in a summer porch setting at the Lynne Hamilton home on Huron River Drive, Lois Hamilton and Jean Flavel hosted a surprise birthday brunch for Rachel Hamilton, who became 88 years old on July 23. The guests included Helen Pierman, Onalee Wall, Minnie Buresch, Helen White, Alice Arlen and Edne Smith.

of Belleville, will be among the many young people leaving our town for college in a few weeks. She will be attending Syracuse University in New York for four years of study in telecommunications.

She is also looking forward to the possibility of an internship abroad, hopefully working with the British Broadcasting Company (BBC) in London, England.

Charles and Jonette Niemann will be leaving later this month to spend a week relaxing at Myrtle Beach, South Carolina, before Jonette reports back to Eastern Michigan University, where she begins her senior year.

Mrs. Niemann is looking forward to a career in teaching.

Mr. and Mrs. Justin Emerson are hosts for a week to daughter Patricia, son-in-law Robert Groeschner and children Kari and Mark, who are visiting from Connecticut.

dan's dogs

by dan a morris

Editor's note: Dan Morris has been a professional dog handler for more than 20 years and has worked in all phases of dog training. If you have a specific problem, his advice is available by writing him care of Associated Newspapers Inc., P.O. Box 578, Wayne, Michigan 48184. He will reply in this column.

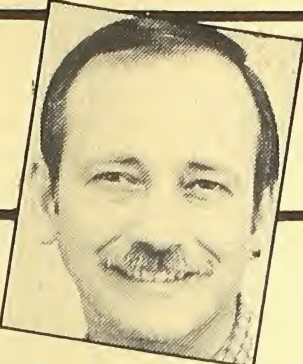

During this time of year dog owners are generally plagued by fleas. Because this was covered in a previous article, I wouldn't want any other insect to have hurt feelings, so we'll discuss other pests our dog has to endure.

Remember, I never advocate a dog being left outdoors for longer than 5 minutes unsupervised, but there are those times when the family is enjoying a barbeque or the lawn is being tended to and at that time our dog may be bitten by flies, ants, spiders, mosquitos, etc. The dog comes into the house with us and for the next week or so bites at himself, scratches constantly and generally drives us crazy trying to ease his itching. Your veterinarian can prescribe a topical medication to dry the dog. In the meantime, you can apply a paste mixture of corn starch and water. This is not a cure but gives temporary relief to the affected area until properly diagnosed by your veterinarian.

Another seemingly continual malady for some breeds is the ear infection. Usually, those breeds having long, silky hair, like the Lhasa, Shih-Tzu, Schnauzer and Poodle are especially vulnerable to ear infections because their hair grows into the ear canal, causing infections. When these breeds are groomed, the hair is pulled out of the ear opening and sometimes forstalls the possibility of infections, but since groomers are neither schooled nor qualified to examine the ears internally, be certain to have your veterinarian check your dog's ears whenever the dog visits.

One good indication of an ear infection is a foul odor at the ear head or pawing at his ears, not to mention the more obvious indication of sores or flaming pink skin. Only your veterinarian can diagnose how severe the infection is and what treatment is called for.

Even though the weather is pleasant and our pet seems to "love it" outdoors, being there is not always the best place for him.

Your responses to my column are appreciated. Please continue to keep in touch with me at "my new address," 42245 Ann Arbor Road, PMC Center, Suite 109LL, Plymouth, 48170, (313) 455-8892. Due to space limitations, the original letter to The Letter Writer is often shortened in this column.

CORRESPONDENCE
SMACKS OF MAIL FRAUD
Dear Letter Writer:

I am so sick of getting intimidating mail from companies saying that I owe them money for things I have never received. I recently got the following letter from a magazine company.

"Dear Mrs. LVE:

Our monthly audit of unpaid subscription accounts indicates that your account has been open past 90 days.

Settlement or verification of your unpaid account is requested by July 29, 1985. Please respond immediately. Your prompt cooperation is appreciated. Be sure to return the enclosed invoice with your payment.

Sincerely, Audit Department"

Please help me write a letter to these people. I have no idea what this is about.

Dear Magazine Editor:

The enclosed photocopy of an Audit Notice and a Subscription Invoice, addressed to me at my home address and received by me on July 15, 1985, via United States mail, smacks of mail fraud.

I have never contracted for a subscription account with your publishing company or, for that matter, any other publishing company in my entire life.

I demand that a copy of my so-called contract be forwarded to my attention immediately.

Sincerely, LVE
RESOLUTION: The following letter was received nine days later from the magazine company.

"Dear LVE:

Thank you for writing to us regarding your subscription to our magazine. We are cancelling the subscription that had been entered in your name. Please disregard any further invoices or issues of the magazine you may receive.

Please accept our apologies for the inconvenience you have been caused and thank you for this opportunity to be of service.

Sincerely, Customer Service
Letter Writer Comment:

It is my best guess that this method of intimidation often works and the recipients of these letters often pay the bills. PLEASE NOTE that the company did not, as requested, send a copy of the Subscription Agreement and, although ludicrous, suggested that LVE "disregard any further issues of the magazine" she may receive. This, of course, will be easy to do as LVE has never received a magazine.

With the fast pace of our lifestyles today, this publishing company probably beats the odds and gets paid for subscriptions because, it is just easier to do and the breadwinner figures, "Oh, well one of the kids or the wife must have ordered the magazine."

LVE really should write another letter "demanding" a copy of the subscription.

A new collection

A new special interest video collection has just been started at the Wayne Oakland Library Federation (WOLF) Film/Video Library containing informational, instructional and other videotapes not readily available from other sources.

Video collections are not a new addition to public library services—several libraries have been circulating feature videos for many years. This collection, however, is new in focus and will be growing from the current 100 titles in 1/2-inch VHS format, which cover subjects such as cooking, foreign language, sports, first aid and business management.

Among the more popular titles are "Megatrends," "The One Minute Manager," "The 1984 World Series," "Wines of California" and the Massey tape series by Dr. Morris Massey.

A $4 service fee per title is collected at the time the video is borrowed from the WOLF library. Videos are available to individuals and organizations in Wayne or Oakland County communities served by a member library of the WOLF and can be ordered from and delivered to a local WOLF library.

Wiley wins city golf crown

By TOM MOORADIAN
ANP Staff Writer

Matt Wiley is back. Although the 28-year-old Canton Township golfer hasn't gone anywhere, he definitely returned to the scene of his greatest triumph - Fellows Creek - to win the 1985 version of the City Championship Golf Tournament.

With most of the suspense created in the first round on Saturday when at least three golfers - Westlanders Nunzio Marino and Fred Backiel, along with Inkster's Kevin Ryan - were within shooting range of Wiley's sizzling first round score of 67, Wiley managed to play 'par golf' while the challengers faded during Sunday's final round.

Wiley finished the 36-hole, two-day tournament with a 4-under-par 138 to win the championship. The victory automatically gave him the Canton Township title as well.

"There is a certain feeling to winning," Wiley said afterwards. "Sometimes it's inexplicable, but it's always great to win."

Wiley had been in the winner's circle once before. In 1981 he also captured medalist honors in a tournament that also was staged at Fellows Creek.

However, Wiley didn't have to contend with perennial title contender Tom Piscopink, the defending champ. Piscopink missed the tournament this year "because of prior commitments", he said. He was in the clubhouse on hand to congratulate the new champ.

Wiley carded four birdies to claim the first round lead which he never relinquished to his opponents. Marino, a 20-year-old Westlander who prepped at Plymouth Salem where he earned recognition as a varsity golfer, had problems with his putter on Sunday.

"My putter went bad on me," he moaned, "and I just couldn't get back in stride." And was there pressure to make up the two-stroke difference. "There's always that, but when you lose ground there's no one to blame but yourself."

Backiel attributed his demise to his ineptness to reach the greens. Though Marino settled for a 75 for his second day, Backiel wilted under a cloudless sky, scoring an 80 for his second round.

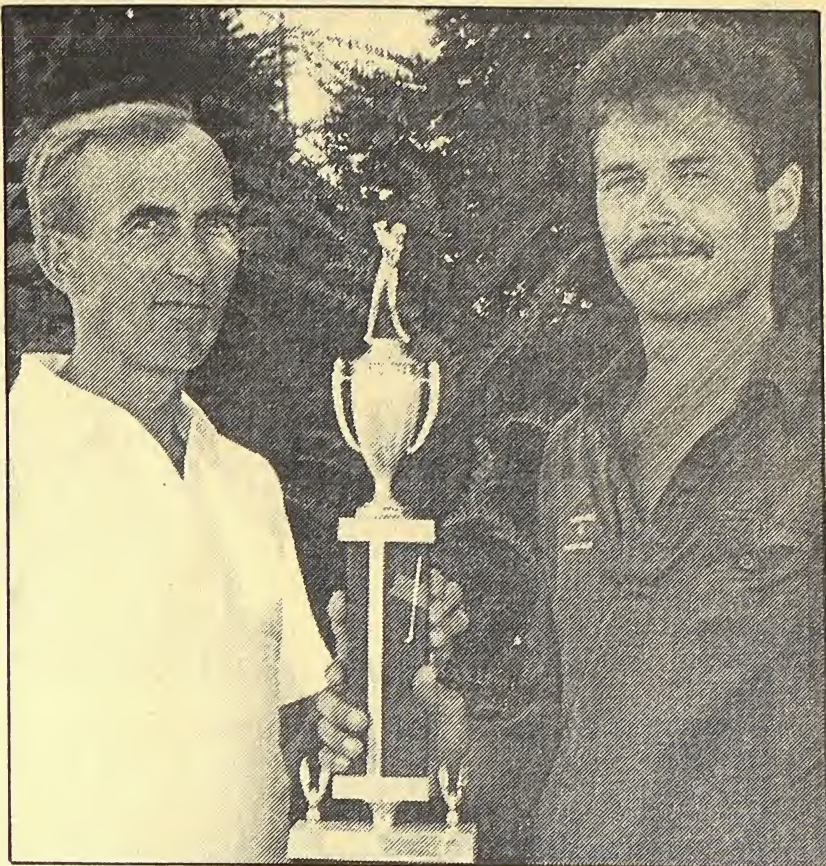

Ryan, who managed to dethrone Lacy Hill as the city champ of Inkster, shaved two strokes off his first round score in the finals. He finished with a 142 total, four strokes off the medalist's pace.

"Kevin put the heat on me on the back nine," Wiley conceded. "But playing par golf was the key, I believe, to this victory."

"And, would you give Tom Ross a special thanks for helping me to improve my game. He really has helped me," Wiley added. Ross is the course manager at Fellows Creek.

The tournament, sponsored by the parks and recreation departments of Wayne, Westland, Inkster, Romulus, Garden City and Canton Township and The Associated Newspapers, helps determine the lineup of the city teams that will compete in the Michigan Parks and Recreation's state championship. This year's state tournament will be conducted in September in Battle Creek. The top five finishers in each of the five communities are eligible to play on the city (or township) team.

In the battle for the city crown of Wayne, Dan Sowa emerged the winner. After a 5-over-par 76 the first day, Sowa came back with his best game ever and fired a torrid 69 to edge runner-up Mike Luzaich for the championship. Sowa's 145 total also earned him the honor of winning the Patrol-

The champ again

Canton's Matt Wiley (at right) receives the medalist trophy and congratulations from tournament director William Hawley at the conclusion of the 1985 City Golf Championships. Wiley reigned as "champ again" after a four year drought. He shot a sizzling 4-under-par 67 the first day but came back for a 71 on Sunday for a 36-hole total of 138 to capture the coveted crown. The 28-year-old Canton resident who is seeking his masters in Computer Science beat out more than 100 golfers who had entered the summer classic.

man Len Anderson Memorial Trophy. The Wayne winner is automatically awarded the trophy. Patrolman Anderson was the first Wayne police officer to be slain in the line of duty and on hand to make the trophy presentation was Anderson's 13-year-old son, Greg.

Tom Singer, with a 72, had a 6-stroke cushion over John Sample in the duel for the city of Romulus's championship. Singer, a chemical engineer, lost ground to Sample who shaved five strokes off his first round score of 78 for a 36-hole total of 151. But the outcome was never in doubt in that city.

Marino and Backiel were deadlocked after the first 18 holes, each bringing home 69s. But the second day Marino defeated his rival by five strokes to win the City of Westland crown 144-149. Murray Brooks was two strokes behind the runner-up and settled for a third place trophy.

Ralph Slade and Richard

Hunter fought it out for the Garden City title. Both had identical 79s the first day, but Slade shot a 74 to whip Hunter by four the second afternoon.

Some 114 golfers took to the field for the 26th annual tournament which was not only blessed with perfect weather, but was staged without a hitch, according to tournament director Bill Hawley.

"Like we have been saying all along, our golfers in this area enjoy this tournament," Hawley noted. "And they come back year after year to play in it. I did not receive one negative comment despite the fact that Fellows Creek is in the midst of a vast expansion program."

"I would personally like to thank the golf course management, Tom Ross specifically, the township officials, and recreation employees for their cooperation. We look forward to the 1986 championships which should be even better."

Thanks for the memories

With the exception of an early morning drizzle on Saturday, the weatherman provided some 115 area amateur golfers with perfect weather for the annual City Golf Championships staged over the weekend at Fellows Creek Golf Club in Canton Township. The tournament director Bill Hawley and pretty Lisa Sando display a poster designed especially for the tournament by Carl Stabler. The tournament is sponsored by the parks and recreation departments of Wayne, Westland, Romulus, Inkster, Canton and Garden City in cooperation with the sports staff of The Associated Newspapers. In its 26th year, the City Golf Championships is one of the largest tournaments of its kind in the county. The top five golfers in each of the participating communities will make up the team that will compete in the state parks and recreation tourney scheduled to be conducted on Sept. 21 in Battle Creek. Although Fellows Creek is undergoing an approximately $1 million expansion to its present facilities, Hawley said that "the course played well under the circumstances." He thanked the parks and recreation departments, specifically Wayne's Kelly Reimink, Canton's Todd Stein, Mark Peters and Romulus' Al Kormos for their organizational help and also attributed the success of the tournament to B.J. Harden, who served as course manager and ranger, and to William Whitworth, who was the tournament's co-director.

Perfect day to crown city golf champs

Tops in Westland

Twenty-year-old Nunzio Marino(center) proved again he is among the best young golfers in the area as he finished ahead of a field of nearly 50 Westland entries in the City Golf Championships. Marino came up with a 144 total for the two-days of competition to claim the Westland championship. He carded a 69 for the first round and was two-strokes back of leader and eventual champ, Canton's Matt Wiley. Also pictured are Westland runner-up Fred Backiel (at right) and third place finisher Don Mullett with their trophies.

Best in Wayne

After struggling and taking a 76 the first round, Dan Sowa(third from left) came back for Sunday's finals and carded his best ever score, a 69, to emerge the city champ for the city of Wayne. Joining Sowa in the winner's circle are tournament manager Bill Hawley (from left) who offers a congratulatory hand, Ray Ostyn, whose 151 earned for him the third place trophy and Mike Luzaich(at right) who carded a 148 to finish second best in Wayne.

An officer's son

In memory of Patrolman Len Anderson, the first Wayne police officer to lose his life in the act of duty, the members of the Wayne police department offer a traveling trophy to the winner of the Wayne Championship Flight. On hand this year to make the trophy presentation was Patrolman Anderson's 13-year-old son, Greg, who congratulates winner, Dan Sowa, on his winning performance.

Prep cage finals set for TV

The final games of the Michigan High School Boys Basketball Tournament will return to television in 1986, according to a joint announcement by the Michigan High School Athletic Association and Harold Shively, President of WXMI-TV of Grand Rapids.

Under a cooperative program, which is designed to make airing the games financially feasible for the state's television stations, live coverage of the Class A, B, C and D championship games will be produced by WXMI-TV and fed satellite to stations desiring to provide local service through Michigan.

The state finals are scheduled for Sat., March 22, 1986.

In addition, the joint commitment envisions extension of high school coverage to other sports events and will include some level of television availability for the 1985 girls basketball finals and the 1986 boys hockey championships.

Romulus' finest

Although they were few in numbers, Romulus golfers had some "blue chip" competitors battling for that city's title. And Tom Swinger (center), a chemical engineer, walked off with the first place trophy after fashioning a 36-hole, 147 total at Fellows Creek. Four strokes behind the city champ was John Sample (at left) who was awarded the runner-up trophy, while Dave Daniels settled for third place after turning in with a 159.

Canton grid coach Barr, Balconi get assignments

Plymouth Salem track coach Gary Balconi and Canton football coach Richard Barr have been named by Plymouth-Canton Paul Cummings to fill the newly-created positions of faculty athletic managers.

The positions, which will be covered during two release periods per day for each of the managers, will involve supervision of the athletic program at the Centennial Educational Park's two schools.

The two men will schedule and supervise athletic facilities, supervise the cheerleading and pom-pom program, coordinate athletic awards and awards banquets, develop programs to enhance athletics, work as liaison to parents and booster groups, represent the athletic department and faculty in administrative functions, process equipment and supply orders, maintain records of athletic teams and coordinate maintenance of athletic facilities.

In naming the two, athletic director Cummings said: "We had some excellent applicants for these positions. I feel the best possible person for the job has been selected at both schools. I believe they will be a real asset to the Plymouth-Canton total athletic program."

Both men have been with the district since 1964.

Barr has held a number of football coaching positions in the district working his way up to his present position as head football coach. He has also had experience coaching softball and swimming. He holds a masters degree in physical education.

Both men were involved with the athletic board at the Centennial Educational Park and both have backgrounds as athletes in college.

Cummings added: "At this time we expect both of these coaches to continue in their coaching positions. Rich as head football coach at Canton and Gary as head track coach at Salem. We realize this is asking a lot of them, but we also recognize they have a great deal to contribute to the athletic program."

Canton has a double winner

On their "home field" at Fellows Creek, Matt Wiley(center) not only won the 1985 City Golf Championship title but also picked up the Canton Township crown by virtue of his 138 total. Tom Omrich's 153 stood up as second best in Canton while Paul Massimilla finished with the third place trophy thanks to his 157 performance. The tournament was staged Saturday and Sunday at Fellows' Creek, located in the township.

Cook earns another victory

It was another down to the wire finish Saturday at Flat Rock Speedway in the 30 lap ARCA Late Model feature, with current point leader Harold Cook of Sylvania, Ohio taking his 7th at the 1-4 mile oval in 1985.

Joe Hawes of Taylor led from the green flag, holding off heavy pressure from Pat Haywood, John Haki, Dave Kuhlman and Cook for the first 29 laps of the event.

Cook bid his time and on the white flag lap, moved to the outside of young Hawes as the duo crossed the finish line. Entering turn two, Hawes lost control and spun into the infield, ending his hopes for his first-ever feature win. Cook held on to take the win over Haywood, Maki, Mark Johnson and Chuck Roumell. Kuhlman was set back because of mechanical woes.

The racing in the Late Model Division is perhaps at its best since the early 1970's when the likes of Joy Fair, Danny Bird, Joe Ruttman and John Anderson terrorized the speedway.

Canton's Denny Pace completed a clean sweep in the Figure 8 Division, taking the dash, pursuit and 15 lap feature event over Parker Wade, Tom Studt, Mike Mowatt and Russ Champagne. Studt held a good-sized lead with just a few laps remaining, but became involved in a tangle at the intersection. Pace sailed by and captured his initial win.

Where's Hill?

Golf winners and losers

There were a lot of winners and losers at the 26th annual City Championship Golf Tournament staged Saturday and Sunday at the Canton-based Fellows' Golf Course.

And among the winners has to be the citizens of Canton Township whose board members a decade ago had the foresight to purchase and develop the golf course. The course, located at 2936 Lotz Road, has been an asset to the township since it picked the land up from a group of owners at a reported $1 million. The purchase was financed by the issuance of bonds.

A decade later Fellows Creek is in the midst of a vast expansion program thanks to land acquisition from the Wayne-Westland Community Schools and funding generated from the profits of the operation of the golf course.

And to think that the City of Wayne had a "first shot" of purchasing the golf course, and turned it down.

Going back to Fellows Creek stirred a lot of memories for a lot of golfers.

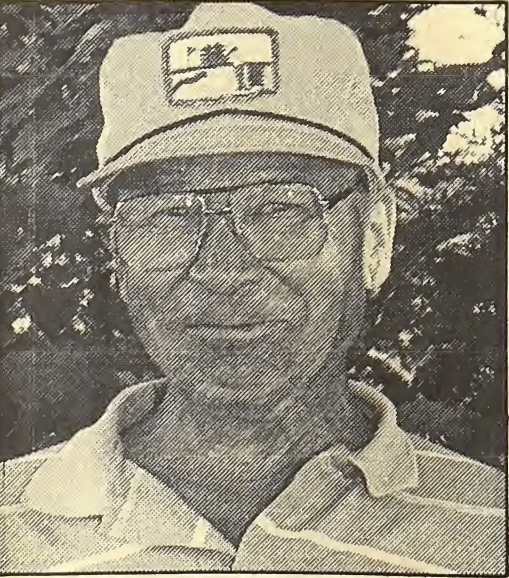

And one of those who has a lot of memories associated with the tournament is none other than Bill Aro who has competed in the last 15 tournaments. And Bill hopes to play in at least 15 more.

That's what Aro, who happens to be 70-years-young says.

"I would like to thank the Associated Newspapers and the City of Inkster for staging this tournament. I know most of us really enjoy taking part. That's why we come back year after year.

"And I got to say that Bill Hawley does one heck of a job in putting on this thing."

Hawley has served as tournament manager of the past 10 meets.

looks at books
...by steve o'leary

Listened to any good books lately? As strange as that may sound, books on cassette tapes are fast becoming one of the bigger trends, as evidenced by the ever-growing space being allotted to them in bookstores, particularly in large, chain-run bookstores.

Ofentimes, the books are, by necessity, a condensed or partial rendering of the book. Most often, these are read by a "professional reader" although, in some cases, the author reads the work, complete with sound effects.

As was mentioned, what you'll often get is a condensed version of the story (the tapes average 120 minutes), but sometimes, as with Harlan Ellison's award-winning "A Boy And His Dog," the entire short story is read.

One of many tapes in the science-fiction field made specifically for the Waldenbooks chain, is Ellison reading his own Nebula-award winning "A Boy And His Dog" as well as the shorter, but just as nerve-racking "Repent, Harlequin!" Said The Ticktockman."

Ellison, the author of 42 books, winner of numerous awards for both his fiction and nonfiction, is known as the "Peek's bad boy" of science fiction, often grating but always worthwhile, these two stories are two of his best, and Ellison's reading makes the characters seem all too real. For instance, if you listen to "A Boy And His Dog" on a car tape player, see if you don't unconsciously lock the doors.

Be aware, though, that this tape isn't for everyone, as fans of Ellison know. He's not afraid to use four-letter words when the scene calls for it, and, among the survivors of World War III that bring "A Boy And His Dog" to life, it isn't uncommon at all.

On the lighter side, Anne McCaffrey's "Dragonrider" books have been on the best-selling lists for years, and are not far removed from Tolkien's world of Hobbits.

The latest of these was "Moreta: Dragonlady of Pern," which was published in late 1983 and made the New York Times top 10 in no time. It too, is available in this specially picked selection of book-to-tape translations.

"Moreta" is a story set generations before her later, popular books, which culminated with "The White Dragon" becoming a number one bestseller. Fans of McCaffrey have undoubtedly read the story, so why, one may ask, should someone buy a tape as well? I, for one, find the stories as read to be truly enchanting.

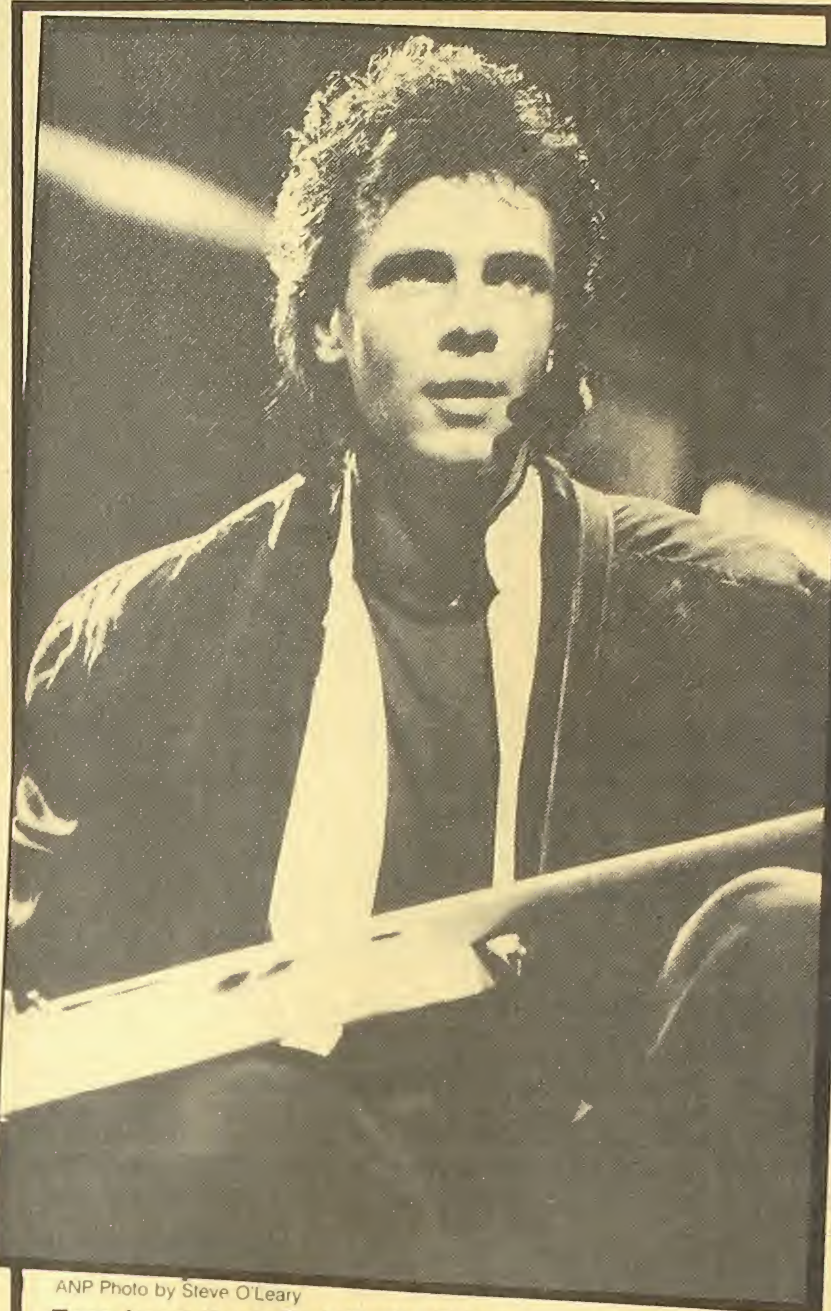

Also available in this special line are Arthur C. Clarke's "Rendezvous With Rama", some of "Robot Books" and Piers Anthony's delightful "Spell For Chameleon," the first of the popular "Xanth" series, and many more.

Not part of the Waldenbook line but also available are everything from "1984" to "The Hitchhikers Guide To The Galaxy" to self-help tapes to all the classics.

Perfect for those with bad eyesight or those with too little time to read the current best-seller, these tapes have become "the thing" to listen to while driving.

Just think, you can listen to a book on the way to a party and be conversant about it when you arrive. Yep, the 80s are indeed here.

(Tapes are available at Waldenbooks in Westland Mall)

Teen heart-throb Rick Springfield was in town last week, playing to two sold-out audiences at Pine Knob Music Theatre. Not to mention the fact that he can play a pretty mean guitar when he wants to as well.

Players honor the season's best

By RUSS OGDEN
ANP Staff Writer

Celebrating their own version of the Fourth of July, the Spotlight Players recently lit their own professional fireworks at their annual Awards Banquet held at LeRight's Banquet Hall on Wayne Road.

Seasonal bests were declared by secret ballot, and had been kept secret since voting on May 14, and mutually announced by Spotlight members Ben and Diane Kemp at the occasion.

Best show of the 1984-1985 season was the superb production of "Death of a Salesman."

Quoting the Associated Newspaper review for Jan. 30, 1985; "For a local community theatre such as the Spotlight Players to have the thespianic guts to tackle such a brilliantly penned, award-winning drama is absolute bravery. To see the Spotlight Players come through with totally acceptable production is a superb happening for the beginning of their 26th year of existence."

Accompanying the "best production of the year" was the naming of John Eastman of Livonia for "Salesman." Receiving plaudits from the membership for Best Overall Actress of the Year and Best Overall Actor were Vicki L.

Cravens of Westland and David Rago of Canton.

A special and touching award is the annual Spotlighter of the Year honor which was presented to Nancy Mounsey of Westland. Mounsey scored twice with the Best Assistant Director award for "Salesman."

Debra Polich-Swain was named for Best Costumes for the production of "God."

Scenery by Swain is colorful and deserves plaudits as do the total costuming efforts.

Best Lighting award was received by Livonia's Gail Susan Mack as well as the Best Sound award, both for "Death of a Salesman." Best Set Design went to Jeff James of Wayne for "Arsenic and Old Lace," the opening fall production of the Spotlight Players. Westland's Mark Renfrow scored for his cosmetic applications with Best Make-up award for "Death of a Salesman," and Best Props award went to Maggie Lamb of Garden City, again for "Death of a Salesman."

For those members of the community who did not see the superb "last season," individual show honors were also made for the various productions. Brian Cheever and Isabell Barrett, both of Belleville, were named Best Actor and Best Actress for "Arsenic and Old Lace."

Ralph Alan Day of Willis was crowned with Best Actor in "Death of a Salesman" accompanied by Vicki L. Cravens, Westland, as Best Actress. Westland's Russ Holderness was named best actor in Woody Allen's "God," accompanied by Best Actress award to Westland's Vicki L. Cravens.

CASTING CALL

Auditions for the Spotlight Players of Westland first show of this play season will be held at 7 p.m. on Aug. 22 and 23 in the auditorium in the basement of the Westland Mall.

The play will be "Close Ties," and there are openings for five women, aged 20 to 85, and three men, aged 16 to 60.

"Close Ties" is an adult drama written by Elizabeth Diggs in two acts. It deals with the relationships in three generations of a family. Rosemary Moorehead of Plymouth will be directing.

Performances of the play will be at 8 p.m. on Oct. 4, 5, 11 and 12 at John Glenn High School Auditorium. Doors will open at 7:30. Tickets are priced at $4.50 for adults and $3.50 for students and senior citizens.

Other titles slated for the 1985-86 season are "Mad woman Of Chaillot" and "No Sex Please, We're British." Dates for these are tentative.

Quality control begins with employee commitment

Employees took the games as well as their commitment seriously . . . and the shuffleboard court was no exception.

these days in computers and extensive programs for product efficiency and low defect levels, Inkster-based Wolverine Gasket Company has taken a different approach. Wolverine, which produces gaskets and insulating products used in the automobile and refrigeration industries, has taken an approach that implements these same objectives but deals with them on the level most directly linked to quality performance in the workplace: its own employees. Keeping with the continuing efforts for quality and zero defects in its product, Wolverine recently hosted an "Employee Commitment Day" in which each employee ceremonial as well as recreational approach to quality. Employees from each of the firm's three divisions, one in Inkster, Blacksburg, Va., and Leesburg, Fla., simultaneously signed pledge cards early in the day to reaffirm their commitment to their job. Presentations from various management officials were also featured as was an afternoon picnic with food and games for all wishing to participate. The pledge card which read: "I freely pledge myself to make, a constant, conscious effort to do my job right the first time, recognizing that my individual contribution is a vital part of the overall effort," was designed to make the employees' commitment personal and not just ceremonial. "The cards make it a personal commitment rather than just a company one," stated Beatrice Davisson, director of materials management at the firm. "There is a individual change in attitude with the commitment, from secretaries to office workers, (they ask) 'what can I do to improve the quality of the product?' It's a feeling that you can affect the quality of the end product," she added. Along with the cards was a slogan contest that searched for the "perfect" slogan for quality success. Winning the award with the phrase "Quality is success . . . never settle for less" was Virginia Halvangis, a credit manager at Wolverine. Employees also donned their Wolverine T-shirts for an afternoon picnic with a horseshoe, frisbee and balloon toss contest. The commitment day celebration came as an idea from the firm's Quality Improvement Team (QIT), a group of employees meeting each week to establish and maintain a quality control program within the company. Two years ago, officials from Wolverine engaged the services of Phil Crosby Associates in Winter Park, Fla., for help in their hope of finding a quality control program. The course, which stresses 14 key steps to top efficiency within the workplace, is the originator of the "Zero Defects" and "Do Things Right the First Time" approaches, both of which have been implemented at Wolverine. Sending several employees through the training courses with the institute, Wolverine established a program it feels will someday bring a zero defect level in its products. In the program, a new group of employees is elected to the QIT each fiscal year with each new team striving for a more successful program that the previous year. The commitment day event stems from such a team. As for the success of the quality incentive program, management officials are content with the results indicating that a noticeable improvement has been seen in the quality and accuracy of the parts and products as has a positive change in attitude with its employees. The commitment day event will become an annual event and the QIT will continue to be an important part of the firm's objectives each year, according to officials at Wolverine.

Bea Davisson

The new program so far has been a success," reported Roy Metelski, president of Wolverine Gasket, "but still has some way to go since the new employee's attitudes toward work tasks are really neverending."

Horseshoe competition winners were Tom Boggs Sr., and son Tom Boggs Jr. assisted by Debby Hotke and Karen McIntosh.

Brothers-Smith exchange nuptial vows

Mrs. Kenneth Smith

The First Congregational Church in Wayne provided the setting for the Aug. 9 nuptials of Kimberly G. Brothers of Norcross, Georgia, and Kenneth A. Smith of Chesapeake, Virginia. The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Henry C. Brothers of Prattville, Alabama. The groom is the son of Mrs. Doris Smith of Westland, and the late Kenneth A. Smith. The early evening double-ring ceremony was officiated by the Rev. Robert Millar and the Rev. Ira D. Hudgins, with Howard Mehler as organist and Mrs. Kathy Kernek of Dearborn as the soloist. Given in marriage by her father, the bride chose a Lindes designer gown of white taffeta for the ceremony. The mandarin neckline was accented with seed pearls and paillettes while the yoke was of sheer espoint des spirit netting. The short puffed sleeves were accented with scattered seed pearls, while the sweeping full taffeta skirt fell into a cathedral train. Her headpiece was a tiara of seed pearls and matching lace and held her fingertip veil in place. Her bouquet was an English oval of pink roses, white pixie carnations and daisies. The bride asked Mrs. John Coursey of Atlanta, Georgia, to serve as her matron of honor. Her bridesmaids were Mrs. Keith Bird of Atlanta, Mrs.

Gary Schmidt of Dearborn, Mrs. John Burman of Monroe, Sharon Chappell of Ypsilanti and Amy Wahl of Monroe. The groom asked Jack Wright of Westland to perform the duties of best man. Serving as ushers were Greg Lenhoff of Westland, Michael Rodriguez of Livonia, Pat Smith of Westland, Gary Schmidt of Dearborn and Keith Bird of Atlanta. A reception for the newlyweds and their guests was held at the Fairlane Club in Dearborn and preceded a short honeymoon trip to Washington, D.C., and Williamsburg, Virginia. The new Mrs. Smith is a graduate of Monroe High School and Eastern Michigan University. She is employed as director of sales for Cruises International in Norfolk, Virginia. Her husband is a graduate of John Glenn High School in Westland and Eastern Michigan University. He is employed as a special agent with the Naval Investigative Service in Norfolk. The couple is making their home in Chesapeake, Virginia.

Romack-Swartz wed

Naples, Florida, was the setting for the May 19 nuptials of Tracy Romack, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Theodore Romack of Romulus, and Carl Swartz III, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Carl Swartz II of San Diego, California. The ceremony was officiated by the Rev. Dr. Gammon, with Toby Romack of Romulus, sister of the bride, serving as maid of honor. The groom asked Ron Yohai of Naples to perform the duties of best man. Serving as ringbearers were Carl and Joe Swartz, sons of the groom. A reception for the newlyweds was held at the Villa Pesiatore in Naples, and preceded a honeymoon trip to San Francisco and the Napa Valley of California. The new Mrs. Swartz is a graduate of Romulus Senior High School. She is employed by the Royal Poinciana Golf Club in Naples. Her husband is the food and beverage director at Pelican Bay in Naples.

NORFOLK SOUTHERN CORPORATION
WHEREAS: Conrail, the government-owned freight rail- road in the northeast and midwest, is being transferred to the private sector as man- dated by law; and

WHEREAS: Secretary of Transportation Elizabeth H. Dole has recommended that Conrail be sold to Norfolk Southern Corporation; and

WHEREAS: State and local governments in the Conrail area will begin receiving $32 million annually in tax revenues when such sale is consum- mated; and

WHEREAS: More than 84 newspapers in 23 states and the District of Columbia have published editor- ials in support of Secretary Dole's recom- mendation that Norfolk Southern purchase Conrail; and

WHEREAS: Payment of $1.2 billion in cash for the Gov- ernment's 85 percent share of Conrail to the private sector will be in accord with a policy of deregulation and of getting the govern- ment out of railroading and transportation; and

WHEREAS: Terms of the sale require Norfolk Southern to adhere to covenants in the public interest for five years to guarantee that current Conrail service will continue and that Conrail's plant will be maintained and improved; and

WHEREAS: Sale to Norfolk Southern will mean that the Government, once and for all time, will no longer subsidize Conrail's operations.

THEREFORE, BE IT RESOLVED: That this body does sup- port Secretary Dole's proposal to sell Conrail to Norfolk Southern, and urges Congress to act without unnecessary delay to accomplish this end, provided that all employees of the Norfolk Southern as well as Conrail be pro- vided full employment or be provided with recourse of full employment and not be adversely affected by the consolidation.

Kare crafts

Youth Living Centers has just received approximately $70,000 from the Federal Government as a one-year start-up fund for a unique youth enterprise program which will be known as Kare Crafts.

This new program will provide job skills training and serve a minimum of 15 youths in a for-profit woodshop, producing toys, craft items, etc. These goods will be sold in local stores and by catalog.

The teens employed by Kare Crafts will be from institutions or other programs for abused, neglected and homeless children. Profits made from this enterprise will go toward maintaining a non-profit agency, helping that agency become independent of public funding.

Youth Living Centers is a non-profit child care agency with five programs including a foster care program, a runaway shelter, two group homes, and a supervised independent living program.

For further information call Stewart Sternberg, community education coordinator at 563-5005.

Here comes the fuzz!

Here comes the fuzz! Here comes the fuzz!

While gliding through the supermarket produce department, have you noticed those peachy-keen peaches vying for your attention amongst the apples, grapes and other fruits? Believe it or not, those California, Georgia and Canadian fuzzy imports have been sitting on those shelves since mid-May. Why is it that it takes those long dog-days of August to have them attract your attention?

Half of American's peach crop comes from (are you ready?) . . . California! The peach state of Georgia is ranking a close (almost too close to count) second with an abundant share coming from Ontario, Michigan and Wisconsin.

From now until mid-September, peaches should be in abundance at most supermarkets with the best buys coming from the fruit stands and local farmers' markets where the local varieties are featured, saving mucho bucks on transportation costs.

So what do you look for in a mature peach? I once called my old college sweetheart a "peach" but she lacked a certain amount of maturity. Rumor has it that a rosy, red one is what must be chosen amongst all that fuzz. FUZZ-COOKIES!!!

That's why it was just a rumor. Pick peaches that have a creamy yellow or golden skin undercolor. Handle it gently and try not to squeeze it because it bruises easily. I can't understand why supermarkets remove the little fuzzy beauties from their protective packing trays when they hit the shelves. Constant prodding and continuous shuffling among the counters will quickly send the best peaches to the mark-down tables near the rear door.

Fresh peaches not fully ripened will do so when kept at room temperature for a day or two.

Freestone peaches, by the way, are not necessarily free from stones or pits. A freestone peach is one that separates easily from the stone when bitten or sliced.

Nutritionally, a medium-sized peach (okay, all you Weight Watchers members, remember what medium is?) averages about 40 calories. Now my idea of a medium peach is about 65 calories. Peaches are naturally low in sodium and provide an excellent source of vitamins A and C. They are also 90 percent water which makes them an excellent choice for a nutritious thirst quencher on those hot summer days and evenings.

There is a variety of uses for the peach, other than the typical fruit cocktail. They can be marinated (try Southern Comfort), sauteed (try them sauteed in butter till very tender and then poured over vanilla ice cream), grilled (try them on a skewer, basted with fruit juices and served as an accompaniment with burgers and steaks).

Fresh peaches make excellent peach daiquiris. (I freeze mine first, then add them frozen to the blender with some rum and coco-lopez). My sister

Rosie makes the BEST peach cobbler I've ever tasted. If you think your recipe is better, let me know, but I'd stake my reputation on Rosie's cobbler!

So head for your nearest orchard, roadside stand or produce department for the best . . . and have a peach of a summer!

(Editor's note: Looking for a lost recipe? Want to make something special? Need to know where to buy that exotic spice or ingredient? Have a cooking question? Chef Larry will be glad to help you. Write to him c/o Associated Newspapers, P.O. Box 578, Wayne, Michigan, 48184.)

PEACHY KEEN CAKE

3/4 cup plus 3 tablespoons sugar, divided
1/2 teaspoon ground ginger
5 medium peaches, pitted and sliced, do not peel
1/2 cup butter (at room temperature)
2 eggs
1/2 teaspoon vanilla
1 1/2 cups unsifted flour
1 teaspoon baking powder

Combine 3 tablespoons sugar with ginger. Add peaches to this mix. Let stand 30 minutes, stirring occasionally. In a mixing bowl, cream butter with remaining sugar. Add eggs, one at a time. Beat in vanilla. In a separate bowl, sift together flour and baking powder. Gradually stir into creamed mixture. Spread into a buttered 9x13 inch baking pan. Spoon peaches and liquid over the batter. Bake at 350 degrees for 45 minutes. Cool thoroughly in the pan. Cut into squares to serve.

PEACH LATTICE PIE

Pastry for a two-crust pie
3 pounds peaches, sliced, pitted
1/2 cup sugar/1/2 cup flour
dash salt (optional)
1 teaspoon grated lemon peel
A little milk and sugar

Roll out half the pastry to line a 9 inch pie plate. In a bowl, combine peaches, sugar, flour, salt and lemon peel. Mix well. Turn into pastry crust. Roll out remaining pastry. Cut into 8 strips and make a lattice top over fruit. Brush pastry with a little milk and sprinkle with a little sugar. Place on a baking sheet and bake at 425 degrees for 10 minutes, then reduce the heat to 350 degrees for 45 minutes.

NOTE: Make this in a not-too-clean oven. I wouldn't want you to have to clean the darn thing again after making this pie!

PEACH ICE CREAM

2 cups milk
4 cups mashed peaches
3 1/2 cups sugar
1 tablespoon lemon juice
6 eggs
Dash salt
1 can (14 oz.) evaporated milk
1 pint heavy cream
2 1/2 cups milk
Rock salt

Combine peaches with half-cup sugar and lemon juice in a bowl and set aside. In a separate bowl, beat eggs with salt, slowly adding the remaining sugar and beating until no longer grainy. Slowly add evaporated milk and cream. Pour into a freezer lined with rock salt. Add peach mixture, then the remainder of the milk. Makes about six quarts.

There's a world of difference between learning and loving to learn.

That's the Children's World child care difference.

Learning is a roomful of energetic preschoolers trying to sit quietly while a teacher recites a pre-planned lesson from a standardized manual.

Loving to learn is that same group of children exploring the wonders of the world with a teacher who makes the process of learning as fresh and exciting as the lesson itself.

That's the Children's World Concept. And the Children's World difference your child deserves.

The Children's World Concept: A child taught with love loves to learn.

Our teachers teach from the heart to open the mind. They're free to create activities which spark each child's natural eagerness to learn at his own pace. Your child will gain confidence and welcome new experiences.

In short, your child will learn the joys of learning at Children's World. And that's a lesson that will last a lifetime.

Come see our world of difference.

The best way to understand the Children's World Concept is to see it in action. Visit your neighborhood Children's World, and discover the difference our loving care can make.

Check the Yellow Pages for the Children's World in your neighborhood.

An Inviting Offer from Children's World
You're invited to try Children's World for one week, absolutely free.
WHERE: Your neighborhood Children's World.
